

KSVU is a volunteer-powered, non-commercial, listener community-supported public radio service, with unique programming for un-served and underserved populations.

Our signal covers the beautiful Skagit River Valley, including Sedro-Woolley, Lyman, Hamilton, Birdsvew, Lake Shannon, Concrete, Rockport, Marblemount and north Darrington — with even more communities served with our recent sixfold power increase!

Radio is an outlet to help increase the conversations and distribute local discussion, information and entertainment. Working in cooperation with local citizen organizations, local bloggers, churches, coffee shops and the town's bulletin boards, the radio service is becoming a place for people to tell their stories, give their viewpoints, share their love of music, and relay the conversations and discussions of local leaders and just regular folks.

Through radio, we can easily share in the successes and talents of our neighbors and families. Radio can also be a useful service to the local community during times of emergencies, when normal lines of communication are down.

Please, if you're not a member of KSVU yet, consider joining today. Thank you!
